

APA CITATION

The American Psychological Association (APA) citation style is used for writing in the sciences. The manual containing the citation style also discusses writing style. There are many copies at LeDoux library: in the Reference Room, at the Front Desk and at the computers in the Lobby. All copies are for in-library use only. In addition, Hodges' Harbrace Handbook also includes a section on APA style.

New to this edition is the DOI or Digital Object Identifier, a unique number used by some journals and books. If you can find a DOI for the resource, include it the citation. For resources found online that do not have a DOI, the manual has several contradictory rules and examples. The following distinctions are based on personal analysis of the rules and examples in the manual. Please check the Citation Station regularly for updates or more information.
